

Collegiate Class Convenience

Authors: Jesse Johnson, Shane Granger, Kenny Justin, Alex Hutton

Problem Statement:

Modern college students need a way where they can view their schedule and submit assignments for any class because most students become overwhelmed by the amount of websites they have to check on daily.

Who is experiencing the problem?

College students around the world with a multitude of classes and ways to turn assignments in.

What is the problem?

A majority of college students have six to eight locations where they deal with assignments. Also, viewing their schedule can be timely and overwhelming, rather than having it simplified to their understanding.

Where does the problem present itself?

From before school begins until the end of that semester, then begins again the next semester until the end of the academic year.
